Member Story

With courage and care, families can weather any storm and find their way home.

Coretta is a mother whose strength and faith have carried her through life's hardest storms, literally. After a tropical storm destroyed her home, she and her family were left without a place to go. The sudden loss was devastating. Overnight, they had lost everything.

While searching for help in the aftermath of a crisis, Coretta connected with Trillium. She was able to enroll in the Rapid Rehousing program through Back@Home. The program provides short-term housing assistance and support services for families experiencing homelessness. While Coretta searched for permanent housing, she and her family were placed in a hotel. It was a temporary solution that provided safety so Coretta and family could start to rebuild.

Still, Coretta refused to give up. "Through the help of God and the Back@Home program, I am housed, looking for employment, and my children are thriving," she shared.

Even during their most difficult season, Coretta's children continued to excel. Her son graduated high school and is attending Shaw University. Her daughter is at the top of her class while enrolled in the Northeast Academy for Aerospace and Advanced Technologies and College of The Albemarle. She was also accepted into the North Carolina School of Science and Math.

"I couldn't be a prouder parent," Coretta said. "I can finally sleep at night knowing that God has allowed us to have a safe space to lay our heads."

The journey has taught her strength, gratitude, and perseverance. Now with a permanent place to call home, Coretta is looking for employment.

Coretta's story is a powerful reminder that with the right support and unwavering resilience, families can rise from hardship and move forward with renewed hope, independence, and opportunity.
